

Precipitation forecast July-September 2016

Outlook for the upcoming three months has been prepared after downscaling output of the combined general circulation model (CGCM) for our region. Above normal rainfall is predicted all over the country during the season (July-September) except some extremely northern parts of the country where normal to slightly below normal rainfall is expected during the season. South-eastern parts comprising of Sindh and southern Punjab may get rainfall with maximum positive anomaly.

